Milestone Scientific Featured on World Finance News 1 Radio Network

LIVINGSTON, NJ -- (Marketwired) -- 09/07/17 -- Milestone Scientific Inc. (NYSE American: MLSS) (NYSE MKT: MLSS) today announced that its Director of Clinical Affairs, Mark Hochman, D.D.S, a world authority on computerized injection technology, was interviewed by Tommy Habeeb on "CEO Money" on iHeartRadio 1190 AM Dallas / Fort Worth during the Health and Wellness Lineup, which aired Tuesday, September 5, 2017.

The Company's CompuFlo® Epidural Instrument, which was featured in the segment, received FDA clearance on June 12, 2017.

Dr. Mark Hochman, discussed topics related to advanced painless injections and the technology behind it, called DPS Dynamic Pressure Sensing Technology™, as well as its benefits for patients including:

- a full range of drug delivery applications across more than 20 indications, including dental injections, epidural injections, intra-articular injections and cosmetic injections, among others;
- Pressure and fluid flow rate regulation at the needle tip to substantially eliminate pain perception versus the traditional syringe;
- Real time pressure sensing, in order to accurately identify the location of the needle for precise targeting.

CEO Money's Mervyn Price remarked he "had six dental implants and was not put under," but because he received local anesthetic injections with Milestone's dental instrument, The Wand®, he had no numbness and no pain. The iHeartRadio network serves a listener audience of 2 million, with approximately 1,600 site visits per day.
