Revolution Lighting Technologies Amends and Extends Loan and Security Agreement with Bank of America

$50 Million Revolver Strengthens Balance Sheet and Provides Financial Flexibility to Enable Continued Growth

STAMFORD, CT -- (Marketwired) -- 01/26/17 -- Revolution Lighting Technologies, Inc. (NASDAQ: RVLT) ("Revolution Lighting"), a global provider of advanced LED lighting solutions, today announced that it has amended the terms of its existing loan and security agreement with Bank of America. The amended agreement extended the maturity to January 2020 and increased the borrowing capacity from $27 million to $50 million.

Proceeds from the agreement will be used to repay the $10 million promissory notes issued in connection with the acquisition of Energy Source in 2015, and for general corporate purposes.

"The increase in our secured revolving credit facility highlights Revolution Lighting's strong financial position," said Robert V. LaPenta, Chairman, CEO and President, Revolution Lighting Technologies. "This expanded revolver refinances our near-term obligations and provides us with a flexible capital source with which to execute on our short-term and long-term growth strategy. We are pleased with the confidence shown by Bank of America in our ability to build a strong company and demonstrate excellent growth prospects."

Borrowings under the agreement are determined on specified percentages of eligible collateral, including receivables and inventory, and bear interest either on the base rate plus specified margins or at LIBOR plus specified margins, at the election of Revolution Lighting. The loan provides Revolution Lighting with favorable interest rates with an initial interest rate of approximately 3.5%. The agreement contains customary covenants and restrictions typical of these agreements.
