Cleartronic, Inc. (CLRI) Breaks 40 Million in Radio Transmissions as Both Customer Base and Transmissions Continue Rapid Growth

BOCA RATON, FL -- (Marketwired) -- 04/27/15 -- Cleartronic, Inc. (OTCQB: CLRI) announced today that ReadyOp™ users have now sent over 40 million radio transmissions via the ReadyOp platform. Cleartronic, through its subsidiaries, is the owner of patented radio over IP technology enabling true interoperability between radio talk groups regardless of frequency, manufacturer, location or device, including laptops, personal computers and smartphones using the ReadyOp DT application.

"With our installed base of users in the United States and internationally, we now are seeing the radio traffic exceeding 100,000 transmissions daily," said Marc Moore, a director of Cleartronic, Inc. and CEO of ReadyOp Communications, Inc., a wholly owned subsidiary of Cleartronic. "This is solid proof of the strength and reliability of our ReadyOp communications platform and our patented radio to IP gateways. We are also seeing increased daily use of our ReadyOp DT smartphone application, especially by first responders and emergency operations personnel."

"We are pleased at the continuing growth and use of ReadyOp by our clients. The 40 million milestone for radio communications, plus the monthly growth in total text messages, alerts, emails and other voice communications provided by ReadyOp, shows that ReadyOp has become an integral part of our clients' daily operations as well as their incident and emergency response plans," said Larry Reid, President of Cleartronic

ReadyOp is a secure, web-based platform providing organizations with a single site for planning, response, communications and documentation of personnel, tasks, assets and activities. ReadyOp is in use by federal, state and local government agencies, hospitals, schools and universities, ports and airports as well as corporations. ReadyOp provides simple, flexible communications capabilities, including true interoperability for radio talk groups for personnel in multiple organizations. ReadyOp supports daily operations and special event planning plus incident management, emergency response, recovery and continuity of operations (COOP).
