

Cardax to Lead Plenary Session at Regenerative Medicine Conference

Link Between Inflammation, Chronic Disease, and Aging Highlighted

HONOLULU, Nov. 6, 2017 /PRNewswire/ -- Cardax, Inc. (OTCQB:CDXI) announced today that it will lead the opening Plenary Session and participate in other key presentations at the opening session of Pacific Regenerative Medicine Conference being held November 6-7, 2017 in Honolulu, Hawaii.

The Plenary Session is titled "The Emerging Role of Anti-Inflammatory Treatment Modalities in Chronic Disease and Aging," is certified as continuing medical education (CME) for physicians, and will feature the following speakers and topics:

- Jon L. Ruckle, MD, Cardax acting Chief Medical Officer and clinical trial consultant
 - Topic: Inflammation and Cardiovascular Disease Risk
- Gilbert M. Rishton, PhD, Cardax Chief Science Officer
 - Topic: Possible Anti-Inflammatory Modalities for Cardiovascular Health
- Bradley J. Willcox, MD, Cardax collaborative researcher and consultant
 - Topic: Inflammaging: The Link Between Inflammation, Cardiovascular Disease, and Aging

Cardax CEO David G. Watumull will also participate in a panel discussion: "What Medical Tourism Means to a Local Economy."

"Our participation in this conference aligns well with our strategy to raise awareness within the medical community of the need for safe anti-inflammatory strategies to optimize health and longevity," said Cardax CEO David G. Watumull. "It also demonstrates the global role Hawaii can play as a Center of Excellence for inflammatory health and anti-aging."

The conference is being held at the Hawaii Convention Center and more information can be found at: www.pacificregenerativeconference.com. Cardax helped organize the conference and is a Platinum Sponsor.

About Cardax

Cardax devotes substantially all of its efforts to developing and commercializing safe antiinflammatory dietary supplements and drugs. Cardax is initially focusing on astaxanthin, which is a powerful and safe naturally occurring anti-inflammatory without the side effects of currently marketed anti-inflammatories. The safety and efficacy of Cardax's products have not been directly evaluated in clinical trials or confirmed by the FDA.
