VSE Aviation Singapore Appointed Honeywell Asia Pacific Distributor for B777 and B737 Display Units

CARROLLTON, Texas--(BUSINESS WIRE)-- VSE Aviation, Inc. announced today its VSE Aviation Singapore Pte Ltd subsidiary has been appointed the Honeywell Asia Pacific Distributor for Boeing 777 and 737 display units.

VAI's Singapore operations will provide a one-stop shop for inventory and distribution services to customers in the region. The scope of coverage includes exchanges, modifications, upgrades and conversions of the affected display units from Phase 1 and Phase 2 to Phase 3A.

The appointment was effective April 23, 2018 and VAI has already commenced shipping units to customers.

"This appointment strengthens our existing relationship with Honeywell," commented Paul Goffredi, President and COO of VSE Aviation. "It serves both as a launch point for our Singapore operation and as an in-region resource for quick response to help customers minimize aircraft downtime."

The aim of VAI and Honeywell in this program is to have needed part numbers in-stock and available for immediate delivery.

"This new service is part of our growth strategy for both VSE Aviation and our presence in the Asia Pacific region," continued Goffredi. "We have considerable experience and resources to draw upon both for parts distribution and supply chain logistics that we believe will add value for commercial and general aviation operators in this region."
