Arotech Anticipates Fiscal 2009 Fourth Quarter and Year-End Revenues of $21 Million and $75 Million, Respectively

Company Expects Continued Revenue Growth Across All Businesses in Fiscal 2010 and Provides Update on Operations and Strategy

ANN ARBOR, MI -- (MARKET WIRE) -- 02/08/10 -- Arotech Corporation (NASDAQ: ARTX), a provider of quality defense and security products for the military, law enforcement and security markets, today announced anticipated results for the fiscal 2009 fourth quarter. The Company expects to announce actual results the week of March 22, 2010.

"I am pleased to announce anticipated 2009 revenue numbers for the fourth quarter of $21 million and for the full year of $75 million," stated Robert S. Ehrlich, Chairman and CEO of Arotech. "We expect to be EBITDA positive for the quarter and year, although we anticipate a small GAAP loss for fiscal 2009 as a result of various non-cash charges related to previous acquisitions," added Ehrlich. "Additionally, we expect continued growth across all three business segments in 2010, based on careful analysis of our currently existing contract discussions and backlog, although the sensitive nature of our industries, products and customers makes it difficult to provide a revenue range for 2010," noted Ehrlich.

"We are seeing new market opportunities in batteries and simulation as evidenced by the recently announced battery orders from various militaries around the world and contracts with federal agencies for our 'Point of Force' simulators," continued Ehrlich. "Ongoing discussions with India, Israel, the U.S. and other countries and militaries for our armored vehicles continues, and we remain optimistic for new and continued orders in 2010," said Ehrlich. "However, in many cases these are new products, new markets and new customers, making projections in that division particularly difficult. We do expect to hear a decision from India by the second quarter, which is when we also anticipate beginning shipments of our CaPost order," concluded Ehrlich.
