LiveDeal, Inc. Featured on Emerging Growth

LAS VEGAS, Sept. 19, 2014 (GLOBE NEWSWIRE) -- LiveDeal Inc. (Nasdaq:LIVE) ("LiveDeal" or the "Company"), a publicly traded company that operates livedeal.com, a geo-location based mobile marketing platform that enables restaurants to publish "real-time" and "instant offers" to nearby consumers, today announces that it has been featured in the online financial media portal, Emerging Growth.

The story, titled "LiveDeal Promises Growth As It Continues To Widen Its Reach," follows the company's most recent growth activities, including its 50-city marketing campaign, the improvement of its iOS and Android apps, the tremendous uptake in restaurant partners and deals the company gained over the summer, and its acquisition of ModernEveryday.com.

The article's author, Nicholas Maithya, concludes, "With a market valuation of about $57 million, and having already embarked on an expansion campaign, LiveDeal looks like a promising stock for growth opportunists, and judging by most recent quarterly results, it appears well-set for the occasion." "At LiveDeal, our ongoing concern is twofold. First, we want to make sure that we are providing our clients with top-notch service while we provide their customers with the fastest and easiest access to the most deals in our space. And we are equally concerned with providing shareholder value in everything we do," said Jon Isaac, CEO of LiveDeal, Inc. "Articles, such as the one in Emerging Growth are gratifying because they help our shareholders recognize this goal, and provides validation that we are meeting those concerns successfully."

About LiveDeal, Inc.
