Fusion Wins $1.6 Million, Three Year Agreement to Provide Single Source Cloud Solutions for Rapidly Growing Convenience Store Chain in the Southeast

NEW YORK, Sept. 12, 2018 (GLOBE NEWSWIRE) -- Fusion (NASDAQ:FSNN), a leading provider of cloud services, has secured a $1.6 million, three year cloud solutions contract with a leading convenience store chain operating in the southeastern U.S. The rapidly growing chain required a significant communications and network upgrade and looked for a service provider to deliver an all-in cloud communications solution that included security and business continuity.

The customer chose Fusion's advanced, fully integrated cloud services platform to provide eight scalable and fully converged voice and network solutions to accommodate the company's future growth. Fusion's single source solution for the cloud meets the chain's voice, data and network requirements and seamlessly links the chain's multiple locations with secure, reliable connectivity backed by quality of service guarantees.

In combination with its feature rich and productivity-enhancing cloud voice services, Fusion's award winning SD-WAN, Wireless Failover and Managed Security products offer the growing chain the highest level of secure, always-on application performance while significantly lowering costs. Quickly deployed and easy to manage, Fusion's cloud solutions relieve the convenience chain's management team of the costly burden of network management, allowing them to focus on serving their growing base of customers.

"Fusion's advanced single source cloud solutions solve complex communications challenges with simple, easy to manage integrated services that remove the finger pointing so often associated with multi-vendor environments," said Dan Foster, Fusion's Chief Revenue Officer. "The hallmark of this expanding convenience chain is to make life easier for its busy customers with high quality, high value services. We are proud to have earned the confidence of this growing enterprise by providing a level of service that delivers unparalleled quality, security, reliability and support," Mr. Foster continued.
