Fusion Wins $1.2M, 3-Year Cloud Solutions Contract for Healthy Lifestyle Food Chain

Fusion's Single Source Cloud Solutions Support High Growth Brand's Rapid Expansion across the U.S.

NEW YORK, Jan. 15, 2019 /PRNewswire/ --Fusion (NASDAQ: FSNN), a leading provider of cloud services, announced today that it has secured a $1.2 million, three year cloud solutions contract with a rapidly growing healthy lifestyle food brand. The brand, which plans to triple in size from its current 90 locations within the next few years, cited Fusion's unique ability to customize the highly specialized communications and network solutions needed to meet the brand's demanding requirements for service and quality, as well as to support its ambitious growth plans.

Fusion's integrated and fully managed SD-WAN, Internet, Wi-Fi, Security and Cloud Voice solutions were selected not only to increase productivity and quality while driving down cost, but to help overcome the time and resource-draining challenges of a multi-vendor environment. Fusion delivers everything a company needs to connect, communicate and collaborate effectively through the cloud, allowing the brand to focus on its core business as it rapidly expands across the U.S.

"This rapidly growing brand has embraced technology to drive the delivery of its healthy, ethically sourced and locally grown meals. Such an advanced environment requires connectivity uptime, always-on communications and powerful security," said Dan Foster, Fusion's Chief Revenue Officer. "Businesses are increasingly adopting Fusion's SD-WAN combined with our fully integrated cloud communications platform technology, not only because it simplifies branch networking and management, or because it is cost-effective and easy to deploy, but because it guarantees delivery of business-critical and bandwidth-intensive applications with real time failover that removes service degradation and downtime," Foster continued.
