Inventergy Hires Senior IP Litigation and Licensing Specialist

CUPERTINO, CA--(Marketwired - Apr 16, 2014) -Inventergy Inc., an intellectual property acquisition and licensing company, announced today the appointment of Saxon Noh to the role of Vice President, Intellectual Property Counsel. Mr. Noh is an accomplished IP attorney, most recently serving as Senior Litigation Counsel at Theranos, Inc., where he led the company's IP litigation strategy and advised on IP development efforts.

"Mr. Noh is one of the most talented young litigators in the Valley. He brings the ideal experience and skill set to his role, and we are thrilled to welcome him to the company," said Joe Beyers, Inventergy's Chairman and CEO. "His breadth of experience related to patent litigation and licensing, as well as strategic IP portfolio development, make him an important addition to our leadership team and a critical component to our commercialization efforts and continued growth."

Mr. Noh also served as Principal Litigation Counsel at Rambus Inc. During his tenure, he managed complex patent and antitrust litigation matters, which led the company to more than $1 billion in settlement and forward licenses. He was a key advisor on the company's semiconductor-related IP licensing business and oversaw IP development efforts. Previously, Mr. Noh was Senior IP Counsel at Marvell Semiconductor, Inc. and an attorney in the IP litigation practices at Dewey Ballantine LLP and Brobeck Phleger & Harrison LLP.

Wayne Sobon, SVP & General Counsel of Inventergy added, "Having worked closely with Mr. Noh before, I am so pleased he's joining our team, helping us drive forward on our exciting opportunities."

Mr. Noh earned a bachelor of science in electrical engineering and computer science from the University of California, Berkeley, and achieved cum laude recognition while attaining his juris doctorate from the University of Michigan Law School. He is licensed to practice in California and before the U.S. Patent and Trademark Office.
