Robert Greenberg, SKECHERS chief executive officer, commented: "2010 was truly an amazing year for SKECHERS and our many product initiatives as we reached $2 billion in annual sales. Earlier this month, we were named Company of the Year for 2010 by Footwear Plus, and we're the No. 2 lifestyle footwear brand and the leading source for toning footwear in the United States*. In 2010, we broadened our product range with increased kids offerings, fresh fitness styles, and a larger assortment of boots. Consistent with our approach of supporting our product through advertising, our kids' commercials featured our animated characters, and our toning products incorporated a diverse collection of celebrities, including TV personality Brooke Burke, football legend Joe Montana and former basketball star Karl Malone. Our domestic business increased by 48.3 percent, our international wholesale business increased by 32.9 percent and our company-owned retail sales increased by 27.6 percent, which reflects the combined power of our product and marketing efforts. We continue to develop new and on target product, which we unveiled to our key accounts during FFANY in December, as well as meetings at our new corporate offices last month. We recently enlisted the power of reality star Kim Kardashian, whose 5 million plus Twitter followers and constant media attention helped drive her Shape-ups Super Bowl TV spot to headline news earlier this month. We see numerous opportunities to continue to strategically grow our business around the world, including through the addition of retail stores and further expansion of our international business. We are energized by our record sales, the enthusiasm for our product by both retailers and consumers, and the many opportunities we see in the marketplace in 2011 and beyond."

David Weinberg, SKECHERS chief operating officer and chief financial officer, stated: "As we look forward, we are assessing all areas of our business to position ourselves to profitably grow in the future. Currently, we are carefully reviewing our expenses, which have increased in part due to significant growth over the past year. Our inventory increased by $175 million year-over-year, of which approximately $65 million is to support the increases in our international and retail expansion, and $110 million is related to our domestic wholesale business. As we aggressively work through our inventory position, we anticipate our domestic wholesale revenues and margins will be impacted in the first and second quarters, but we believe they will improve in the second half of the year. And with a healthy double-digit backlog in international as well, we believe our growth will continue to accelerate around the world. Our stores saw positive comps of over 3 percent for the quarter and over 15 percent for the year, and we are planning to open another 30 to 35 company-owned SKECHERS stores this year. We expect improvements to profitability in the latter half of the year when we anticipate a return to full-price selling with an improved margin profile from our new product offering. We are confident that the demand for our brand remains very high globally, and our momentum will continue in 2011."

SKECHERS USA, Inc., based in Manhattan Beach, California, designs, develops and markets a diverse range of footwear for men, women and children under the SKECHERS name, as well as under several uniquely branded names.
