It's Of-fish-ial -- USANA Earns Seal of Approval for Omega-3 Supplement

BiOmega™ Passes Rigorous Testing by ConsumerLab.com

SALT LAKE CITY, Dec. 5, 2018 /PRNewswire/ -- Global health and wellness giant USANA Health Sciences has, once again, been recognized with a seal of approval by third-party assessor ConsumerLab.com — this time for their omega-3 supplement BiOmega. USANA's BiOmega is an ultra-pure fish-oil supplement that supports cardiovascular, immune and joint health.*

"BiOmega is one of our top-selling products, primarily because consumers trust that we have the highest quality omega-3 supplement on the market," says Dan Macuga, USANA's chief communications and marketing officer. "This seal of approval from ConsumerLab.com only strengthens our claim as an industry leader."

ConsumerLab.com is an independent assessor of the quality, purity and label accuracy of health and wellness products. To be awarded a seal of approval from ConsumerLab.com, USANA's BiOmega supplement was rigorously tested to confirm it contains 100 percent of the claimed amount of EPA, DHA and total omega-3 quantity, along with purity testing for heavy metals and dioxins.

"Omega-3s are an essential part of your nutrition regimen, but most people don't consume a healthy and balanced diet that would supply sufficient amounts," says Dr. Brian Dixon, USANA's executive director of health and science education. "BiOmega, USANA's omega-3 fish-oil supplement, contains advanced levels of EPA and DHA, two of the most important omega-3 fatty acids. These ingredients are vital to support your memory, learning, cardiovascular system and overall health. Everyone can benefit from taking a high-quality omega-3 supplement."^{*}

Along with BiOmega, several other USANA[®] supplements have been recently certified by ConsumerLab.com, including [USANA[®] Probiotic](#), [Procosa[®]](#), [USANA[®] Vitamin D](#), [CoQuinone[®] 30](#), [USANA[®] MagneCal D™](#), [Visionex[®]](#), Pure Rest™ and Body Rox™.
